PSYCHOLOGICAL-PEDAGOGICAL SERVICE – SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS, PARENTS, TEACHERS AND SCHOOL

The Psychological-Pedagogical Service (“PPD”) of the International German School of Brussels offers the possibility of counseling by professional contact persons.

Students, parents, teachers and the school are at the center of the PPD’s work, whose goal is to stimulate personality development, strengthen the community and promote well-being in the school.

The multiprofessional team, consisting of Madeleine Mentior (psychologist), Anne-Kathrin Albl (social pedagogue) and Ulrike Lehmann (special pedagogue), provides support and advice on the challenges of everyday school life. This is done, as needed, in confidential one-on-one conversations, through group activities, and through system support.

So gehen wir vor

- We advise, coach and accompany students, parents and teachers through the challenges of everyday school life with the aim of improving the class and school climate.
- We advise and assist in diagnostic processes to ensure appropriate support and treatment.
- We create support plans for the students in order to support them systematically and sustainably in cooperation with teachers, parents and external therapists (dyslexia, dyscalculia, ADHD).
- We participate in class conferences and pedagogical conferences in order to be involved in the implementation of support measures.
- We coordinate the cooperation between the school and our external network of helpers and arrange contacts to external specialists (if necessary) in order to be able to provide effective and sustainable help.
- We plan, implement and evaluate projects and activities for the students to strengthen life and social skills.
- We accompany class trips in order to observe group dynamic processes and to offer leisure and outdoor education.
