About International Academic Competitions

International Academic Competitions (IAC) organizes engaging and challenging tournaments for students worldwide in subjects like history, geography, and science. Founded in 2010 by Jeopardy! champion David Madden, IAC has grown from a single event in New York to competitions in over 50 countries, inspiring a love of learning, encouraging academic excellence, and connecting like-minded peers globally.

What is the History Bee and Bowl?

The International History Bee and Bowl consists of two game formats:

1. The History Bee is an individual quiz competition where participants answer history-related questions in a fast-paced, buzzer-based format.
2. The History Bowl is a competition where participants play in teams and answer history-related questions in a fast-paced, buzzer-based format.

This tournament is designed for students of all skill levels, from curious beginners to seasoned history buffs.

Who can compete?

Any student from any school (not only in Benelux!) can compete if they haven't already participated in another tournament using the same question set in the 2025-2026 academic year.

The event is divided into the following age divisions (though students may play in a higher division if preferred):

- Varsity Division: Students born in or before August 2009 (not older than 19).
- Junior Varsity Division: Students born between September 2009 and August 2011.
- Middle School Division: Students born in September 2011 or later.
- Elementary Division: Students born in September 2013 or later.

Where does it lead?

The History Bee and Bowl of Benelux is part of a much larger competition circuit:

- Winners and top-performing students from this regional tournament will qualify for the European Championships (in 2026 this will take place in either Paris or Berlin, on the last weekend of May or the first weekend of June)
- From there, qualifying participants will have the chance to compete in the prestigious International Geography Championships, taking place in Khao Lak, Thailand, 5-12 July 2026.

Why participate?

- Showcase your history knowledge and buzzer skills in a fun, academic environment.
- Gain a chance to qualify for the 2026 European Championships.
- Join a global movement of history enthusiasts.
- Connect with like-minded students from across Benelux and beyond.

When and where?

- Saturday, 7 February 2026 at the International German School of Brussels
- Lange Eikstraat 71, Wezembeek-Oppem, Belgium
